LICET ANTHEM

(Spirit of LICET)

Shining bright, bright, bright (3)
Shining bright
Spent my days trying to fathom the real me,
Dreaming what the real world would be,
I was nothin' but an empty shell,
Hopeful, now I form myself.
I try to voice my thoughts,
And now it reaches out.
At last I've seen the light,
Shining bright, bright, bright.

Chorus:

Like a phoenix rising from the flame,
Like an eagle soaring to the sky,
Breaking free of enslaving chains,
I let my light shine even amid my pains.
Looking up, I see my dreams of infinity,
As my heart has paved the way to clarity.
A throwback to the stagnant years,
Now full of life, now full of cheers.
Every turn captures a new surprise,
New horizons on the rise,
And now I see the light,
Shining bright, bright, bright.

THE JESUITS

St. Ignatius of Loyola (1491–1556), founder of the Society of Jesus (popularly known as the Jesuits), wanted to do the best for the least. He and his companions, though all post-graduates from Paris University in the middle of the 16th century, did not initially think of founding educational institutions when the Society of Jesus was founded in 1540. In the beginning of Jesuit history, education was one of their activities in helping out the needy, but soon they realized that education was the key to empowering the marginalized. From then on, education became their primary mission, and they started founding educational institutions in Europe. The Jesuits are the architects of European education through their Ratio Studiorum (1599), which gives the outline and logic of the European educational system.

For over 470 years, education has been the focus of the Jesuits' commitment to the people. At a time when education was available only for the elite and the well-to-do, Ignatius founded a school in Rome and offered education for all. At the time of his death (1556), the Jesuits were already directing 33 colleges and universities in Europe. Today, there are over 200 Jesuit institutions of higher education worldwide, 40 of them in India. Over the centuries, members of the Society of Jesus have excelled in imparting relevant and meaningful education wherever needed.

The Jesuits have been on all fronts that would serve the betterment of humankind. They have contributed much to science. Teilhard de Chardin (1881–1955), a French Jesuit philosopher trained as a paleontologist and geologist, discovered the missing link in evolution (the Peking Man).

The Jesuits introduced Mathematics and Astronomy in China. Seismology was called the “Jesuit Science.” The Gregorian Calendar, that is in use today has been designed by a Jesuit (Christopher Clavius). In recognition of Jesuit contributions to astronomy about 35 craters in the moon are named after them.

The Jesuits discovered the gear system in engineering and Quinine for Malaria. In architecture, they developed Ratio aedificiorum and promoted Baroque architecture. Jesuits have been pioneers and pathfinders in the field of education, especially in pedagogy and the relevance of education. They promoted liberal arts and science, leading to the holistic formation of the person as a global leader with social responsibilities. The first university college in India, St. Joseph’s College, (Trichy), was founded in 1844. Loyola College, Chennai, was founded by the Jesuits in 1925. It has been established, owned, and administered by the Loyola College Society (LCS). The LCS is registered under the Societies Registration Act of 1860, No. 228/1973 and has its office at the Loyola Campus, Chennai. Loyola College was founded in 1925 by Rev. Fr. Francis Bertram, SJ and a band of dedicated Jesuits who came to Chennai at the invitation of the Most Rev Dr. J. Aelen, Archbishop of Chennai, to open a Catholic college in the State capital.

The Loyola Campus in Chennai has been a fountain of academic institutions. The passion of the Jesuits for global education propelled them to be innovative, expanding their service in education. In 1979, the Loyola Institute of Business Administration (LIBA) came into existence, and in 2007, Loyola College of Education was founded.

After serving for more than a century and a half in the fields of arts and science education, the Jesuits felt the need to open new vistas in technical education. Aiming at global education, and making it accessible to the marginalized but ensuring academic excellence and professional innovation, the Jesuits evolved the concept of an engineering college in the Loyola Campus.

Based on the common search for creativity, competence, commitment, compassion, and social responsibility for the students, they signed a MoU (Memorandum of Understanding) with Institute Catholique d' Arts et Métiers (ICAM) founded in 1898 at Lille(France) in April 2009, with the purpose of forming leaders with social responsibility. Loyola–ICAM College of Engineering and Technology (LICET) is the outcome of the common vision shared by ICAM and the Loyola College Society (LCS). LICET aims at forming engineers who would engineer a just society.

After due process, LICET today is an institute of technical education approved by AICTE and affiliated to Anna University, Chennai (August 2010). LICET is a Christian Minority Institution approved by the Government of Tamil Nadu (July 2011) and is ISO 9001:2008 certified to (May 2012 and May 2015).At present, LICET offers six courses: B.E. in Computer Science, Electrical and Electronics, Electronics and Communication and Mechanical Engineering, as well as B.Tech. in Artificial Intelligence and Data Science, and B.Tech. in Information Technology.

LICET offers co-education with preference to Catholics, the socially marginalized (the Dalits), first-generation graduates, and the rural poor. The college strives to be unique in every way by offering an industry-focused curriculum that integrates cutting-edge technologies, hands-on learning experiences, and collaborations with leading experts to equip students with real-world skills and future-ready competencies. LICET, committed to individual formation, resulting in social transformation, is building up industry–institution interface and soon will evolve as the epicenter of social change and the beacon of global education. LICET will also stands as a symbol of a cause—Empowering the marginalized through intellectual and professional formation to be leaders of decision-making. It is a process of making those at the receiving end, to assume power of command-centers.

GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

Jesuit education has the following multipronged goals and objectives:

The Jesuit education:

- Is world-affirming;
- Assists in the total formation of each individual within the human community;
- Insists on individual care and concern for everyone;
- Emphasizes activity on the part of the student;
- Encourages lifelong openness to growth;
- Is value-oriented;
- Encourages a realistic knowledge, love, and acceptance of self;
- Provides a realistic knowledge of the world in which we live;
- Prepares students for active life commitment;
- Serves the faith that does justice;
- Seeks to form men and women for others;
- Manifests concern for the poor, particularly;
- Pursues excellence in its work of formation;
- Witnesses to excellence.

(Cf. The Characteristics of Jesuit Education by Fr. Peter-Hans Kolvenbach, SJ Superior General of the Jesuits, Rome, December 8, 1986.)The primary aim of the Loyola College Society is to provide a university education in a Christian atmosphere to deserving students, especially those belonging to the Catholic Christian community. Although this college is meant primarily for Catholics, it does admit other students irrespective of caste and creed. The college aims at producing young men and women of quality to be leaders in all walks of life and to serve their fellow human beings with justice, truth, and love. It is expected that this training and formation will play a vital role in bringing about the desired change for the betterment of the people of our country, particularly the poor and marginalized sections of society. Further, it will foster an atmosphere of intellectual vigour and moral attitude in which the young men and women of our country. I may find fulfillment and achieve greatness as eminent men and women for and with others. In keeping with the Jesuit option for the poor and the marginalized, 30% of the admissions are reserved for the rural poor, first-generation learners, and the socially marginalized (the Dalit Catholics).

ICAM

ICAM (Institut Catholique d'Arts et Métiers) was founded in 1898 by two industrialists, Mr. Vrau and Mr. Feron-Vrau, and was entrusted to the Jesuits to build up technical education based on Jesuit pedagogy.

In France, ICAM has seven campuses [Lille, Grand Paris Sud (Paris–Sénart), Nantes, Vannes (Bretagne), Vendée (La Roche-sur-Yon), Toulouse, and Strasbourg Europe] and Internationally, ICAM has seven campuses located in high growth regions [Cameroon (Douala), Congo (Pointe-Noire), Democratic Republic of Congo (Kinshasa), India (LICET, Chennai), Brazil (Recife), Ecuador (Quito), and the Philippines (Manila)]. ICAM is known for its effective teaching programmes based on industry–institution relationships. ICAM trains around 600 engineers with social responsibility every year. ICAM and the Loyola College Society (LCS) forge solidarity through academic exchange in training faculty members and forming students. This is achieved by building a highly effective institution–industry relationship.

JESUIT EDUCATION – NEW FRONTIERS

Jesuit education is an integration of Intelligence-quotient, emotional - quotient, and God-quotient, leading to the justice-quotient. At LICET, responsible engineers who would engineer a just society are formed as global leaders with social responsibility.

Jesuit education in the Chennai Province (Tamil Nadu) today draws its inspiration from two epoch-making statements: the Vision Statement and the Preamble to Jesuit Higher Education, that originated in the Madurai Province Meet of 1985.

EXCERPTS FROM THE VISION STATEMENT

The political freedom of our country achieved in 1947 has failed to break the bondage of our people over the years... Today, about 60% of our people have been made poor and kept illiterate. They are deprived of the basic necessities of life and education, of human dignity, and of the power to decide their own future. There is a degrading inequality caused primarily by caste discrimination... We understand that the contemporary equivalent of the mission of salvation is the integral liberation of man... which is crystallized for us today in an ardent desire to work TOWARDS LIBERATION TOGETHER WITH THE POOR. The preferential option for the poor means that we cast our lot with them through concerted social action. Our love is, indeed for all human beings, but it assumes different forms. We love the oppressed by espousing their cause and we love the oppressor by emancipating him from the greed and domination that dehumanize him.

EXCERPTS FROM THE PREAMBLE TO HIGHER EDUCATION

“Our educational institutions will shape our students into agents of social change, preparing them for concerted social action and thus paving the way to mass movements which will bring about the desired liberation. They will, in their admission policies, actualize our preferential option for the poor, by ‘giving a privileged place to the weak’—socially, economically, and academically and form them ‘as men for others, stamped with the Ignatian hallmark of excellence and relevance’.”

TOWARDS COMMUNION WITH MOTHER EARTH IN HUMAN SOLIDARITY

(Excerpts from the Statement of the Jesuit Madurai Province Assembly held at St. Joseph's College, Tiruchirappalli, on 27–28 December 2008)

"We stand at a critical moment in Earth's history, and we perceive more clearly than ever before that Mother Earth is groaning under the impact of environmental degradation. The unprecedented environmental destruction through the depletion of natural resources, desertification, global warming, pollution, and the widespread displacement of people caused by ill-conceived developmental initiatives is echoed across the universe (GC 35 D3/33)..."

"We also note with grave concern that Mother India is being subjected to the onslaught of communalism and religious fundamentalism. We should not be mute and passive spectators to the violation of human rights in our country, but act as a protest force, raising our voices unitedly against such inhuman acts. In this context, we pledge to promote a culture of dialogue and reconciliation across various sections of our country, appreciating pluralism. We hope thus to build a harmonious and equitable society that upholds the inalienable human rights and dignity of all..."

In his book 'The Spiritual Exercises', St. Ignatius of Loyola brings out the environmental consciousness that we should possess in order to see God in everything and everything in God. He writes: "...God dwells in creatures; in the elements, giving them life; in the animals, giving them sensation; in human beings, giving them intelligence; and finally,... he dwells in myself, giving me existence, life, sensation, and intelligence; and ever further, making me his temple, since I am created in the likeness and image of the Divine Majesty... God labours and works for me in all creatures on the face of the earth; that is, He works in the heavens, elements, plants, fruits, cattle, and all the rest - giving them existence, conserving them, and concurring with their vegetative and sensitive activities..." (Sp. Ex, 235f).

Now, the LICET engineers are expected to work for others with social responsibility. LICET promotes awareness of environmental protection as well as non-conventional energy sources, especially solar and wind energy. "Green Loyola" is the driving force behind building environmental awareness.

UNIQUENESS OF LICET

INSPIRINGLY CREATIVE

LICET is evolving as a centre of global learning and the students are formed as leaders with social responsibility. LICET is inspiringly creative in its curriculum and empowering the students for the world of tomorrow. The faculty and students exchange programmes with universities abroad give the members of LICET a global exposure needed for national and international leadership with social responsibility.

A brief history of LICET:

After the Restoration of the Society of Jesus in 1814, the French Jesuits came to Tamilnadu. In remembrance of this origin, efforts were made both by ICAM as well as LCS, to co-found a technical institute of higher education. In order to strengthen the newly formed Chennai Mission, the Jesuits thought of an engineering college at Chennai. After much deliberation and numerous meetings both in Chennai and in Lille (France), Loyola-ICAM College of Engineering and Technology (LICET) emerged in 2010 for forming engineers with social responsibility with the focus on relevant, industry related, and job-oriented technical education. The maxim of the Jesuit education is 'magis' (ever to excel). As the students leave LICET, each one would realize: if you really want to achieve something, the entire universe would conspire to help you achieve it. The spirit of 'ever to excel' would be the driving force to create a new world order. In LICET students will not be taught yesterday's solution for tomorrow's problem/challenges but trained as men and women of vision for a better tomorrow. In LICET the students, not only be taught what to think but how to think as well. The Jesuits dream of making LICET unique.

The following features would be the hallmark of LICET:

Academic Collaboration:

LCS and ICAM would like to form engineers with social responsibility. Today the tendency and demand is technical education coupled with management-training. Also, the global need for engineers especially in Europe and USA is to be taken care of.

At LICET three streams of students' education are foreseen:

- a. After BE/BTech degree at LICET, they can continue with an MBA degree at LIBA (Loyola Institute of Business Administration);
- b. After BE/BTech at LICET they can pursue an ME in ICAM (France);
- c. Students from ICAM (after LICET becomes autonomous) can study at LICET.

LICET is establishing collaboration with universities (especially in the USA and Europe) for the purpose of faculty and students exchange programmes. LICET students are able to do their projects in universities abroad. Thus, LICET will become the epicenter of global education forming men and women for worldwide needs. ICAM students come to Loyola every year to study for one semester. LICET students are sent to ICAM (France), Comillas University (Spain), and Heilbronn University for summer project work. They also pursue Master's Programmes in France, USA, UK, and Australia. This gives not only integration with other cultures but also experience with global educational and industrial networking.

Jesuit Pedagogy:

LICET has got a combination of highly intellectual students as well as slow learners. For the sake of those who come from Tamil medium, English coaching is given in the beginning. As Mathematics is fundamental for engineering studies, bridge course is offered in maths as well as the bridge course that originated at LICET, is now taken up and recommended by Anna University to all the affiliated colleges. After unit tests, the slow learners are given special coaching so that they could catch up with others. In addition to the class teachers who follow the academic progress of the students, each student has a mentor who would journey with the student all through the eight semesters. In mentoring, the needs of the students, especially low self-confidence, low self-esteem etc., are addressed and professional counseling is offered to those who need it. Thus, journeying with the students boost their morale and confidence to face the challenges once they step out of the portals of LICET.

The LICET administration constantly keeps in touch with the parents of the students. Periodic reports are sent to the parents on the attendance, academic progress etc. During the periodic Parents-Teachers-Association meetings ways and means are discussed to make education more relevant and meaningful. LICET formation is based on the following four-pillar hybrid system, which is basic and essential for forming the student.

- Preparing the students as per the curriculum framed for the programme of study
- Excelling in professionalism through interaction and integration with industries
- Personality development through communication skills, Time and Stress Management, Motivation and Goal-setting, valued-based outlook in life etc

- International exposure to universities and industries abroad; and
- Imbibing God-quotient, through retreat and spiritual experience

Autonomous Status and LICET Curriculum:

LICET has gained autonomous status, enabling it to design a meticulously structured curriculum that seamlessly integrates theoretical knowledge with practical applications. This approach ensures that students develop the essential skills and competencies required to excel in today's competitive landscape. The curriculum is organized into four distinct categories across all semesters: Theory Courses, Laboratory-Integrated Theory Courses, Laboratory Courses, and Formation Courses.

Industry-Institute Interface :

Technical education is expected to meet the challenges in a world of scientific and technological advancement. LICET has a strong industry-institute network ensuring that students receive a robust academic foundation and also hands-on experience through value-added courses and skill-based training. This holistic approach equips graduates with the expertise and adaptability needed to excel in the ever-changing professional landscape. Industry-Institute Interface opens up new vistas for students to make the best out of industrial visits. Arrangements are made for the students to have hands-on experience in the industrial environment and to have in-plant training as well in order to find placement. The first year students also have opportunity for industry internship in summer. In this respect ICAM Methodology of lab-oriented training is offered and students are guided to put into practice the theory that they are learning. Guest lecturers and lab training by the industrialists are periodically arranged for better grasp of the subject. This ensures jobs even before they complete the courses.

Every year Industry-Academia Conclave Meet is organized to keep in touch with the current trend and needs in industries. Over 300+ industries that are in working relationship with LICET offer opportunities for in-plant training and projects, leading to placement.

Research:

LICET believes in learning by doing and making innovative contribution to the world of science and technology. LICET encourages the faculty as well as the students to take active part in national and international seminars and present papers based on original research. Our students do very well on national and international level by presenting creative and innovative proposals and models. LICET invites industries to set up their research facilities in LICET so that our faculty and students could have access. This would pave the way to make joined contribution: Our faculty would become consultants to industries and our students would be able to do in-plant training and project work leading to their placement as well. LICET promotes research on various domains of social demands.

GOD Quotient:

To make the students imbibe values in their lives, retreats are organized at regular intervals for catholic students. For other students life skill trainings are organized. These exercises help the students to be more focused and achieve better in their career.

Holistic Formation:

LICET is aware that the students are not the finished products of engineering but rather they are in the making. Some students are good in academics, some others in fine arts, and yet others in sports etc. LICET creates an atmosphere for the overall growth of students. Cultural as well as sports are given equal importance at LICET. The multi-talents of the students are showcased during cultural as well as sports/games activities and each student is formed to feel that he/she has talents and hence he/she is worth something in the world of competition. During regular Parents-Teachers-Association meetings the progress of the students are discussed and follow-up actions are taken. Attempts are initiated for financial assistance for the needy. At LICET academic excellence and leadership formation are considered as two axes of education.

LICET Tournament :

One could learn a lot from games and sports, such as self-confidence, teamwork etc. In order to promote sportsmanship LICET has come up with LICET Tournament. The LICET TOURNAMENT is organized every year in cricket (men), volleyball (women), and badminton (men and women). This has brought in good teams from other engineering colleges and it helps in students formation as well.

Future Direction :

LICET contemplates on introducing new programmes catering to the demands of the industry and also collaborative training programmes in diversified fields. It also intends to promote entrepreneurship and innovation, while strengthening its ties with other universities in and outside India. By building up industry institute relationships and strengthening this bond LICET desires to become a centre of excellence for Research and Development. LICET also envisages to become a leader in the innovative teaching learning process and providing relevant and updated content of the engineering curriculum.
